Scott:

The policies for the Commission, including its staff, implemented earlier this year have certain requirements which may not be applicable or required by others. There are still some situations that arise which can question how to handle certain matters, such as the providing of a WORD copy of the document, which is appreciated. It was out of an abundance of caution and in accordance with these Commission policies the email was sent so that I and any other Commission staff member would be in compliance in case there was a question otherwise.

I hope that you did not take the email as anything otherwise that intended above and if so, I apologize for any confusion. Thank you for your understanding and attention to this matter.

Thank you.

Jo Anne Wessinger Hill

Jo Anne, Thank you. We were operating under the impression that with notice to opposing counsel, the parties were permitted to provide a WORD copy to the Commission without providing a WORD copy to opposing counsel. Going forward, if the Commission requests a WORD document, we will copy counsel for all parties. Please let me know if you have questions.
